

ABSTRACT

A plunger engagement section for safety hypodermic syringe includes a protruding portion at the plunger engagement section accommodated by a barrel. The protruding portion fills an entire space at an interior of 5 a needle holder when the plunger is pushed forward, thereby overcoming a drawback or prior inventions as failing to completely inject a medical solute contained.